Six Representatives of Broward League of Cities Appointed to Florida League of Cities' Board of Directors

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. - The Florida League of Cities has appointed the following Broward League of Cities representatives to its board of directors:

- Lauderhill Commissioner M. Margaret Bates, director and past president of Broward League of Cities;
- Cooper City Mayor Debby Eisinger, president of Broward League of Cities;
- Coral Springs Mayor Roy Gold, director and past president of Broward League of Cities;
- Miramar Mayor Lori Moseley, director and past president of Broward League of Cities;
- Wilton Manors Mayor Gary Resnick, treasurer and past president of Broward League of Cities;
- Second Davie Councilwoman Susan Starkey, vice president of Broward League of Cities.

Bates, Eisinger, Gold, Moseley, Resnick, and Starkey will serve on the board of directors until August 2012.

“The Florida League of Cities is the united voice for Florida’s municipal governments,” said Eisinger. “By playing a greater role in the Florida League of Cities, we are able to strongly represent the cities of Broward County, its residents and their interests in statewide affairs.”

Additionally, Pembroke Pines Mayor Frank Ortis, director and past president of Broward League of Cities, and Hallandale Beach Mayor Joy Cooper, director and past president of Broward League of Cities, serve on the board of Florida League of Cities as past presidents of Florida League of Cities and will continue to serve on the Florida League of Cities board as long as they are elected officials.

Other elected officials from Broward County serving on the Florida League of Cities board, representing three of the 10 most populous cities in Florida, are Fort Lauderdale Mayor Jack Seiler, Pembroke Pines Vice Mayor Iris Siple, and Hollywood Vice Mayor Patricia Asseff, secretary of the Broward League of Cities.

The Florida League of Cities is governed by a 54-member Board of Directors made up of elected city officials from around the state of Florida. The Board of Directors is tasked with policy making and overseeing the operations of the League.

The Florida League of Cities was founded in 1922 to meet and serve the needs of municipal officials throughout the state. Among its primary functions is to develop a municipal legislative platform and lobby the state legislature and Congress on a variety of issues important to Florida city government.
